Trees are real climate protectors, because they filter the greenhouse gas CO₂ from the air and store it in their wood.

On average, Germans go for a walk in the forest every two weeks. Obviously we have a close connection to this unique habitat. Forests clean our water and air.

They are places of recreation and home to many animal and plant species. The trees we plant will continue to do good for people, animals and the climate for many decades to come - this tree certificate certainly belongs to the most lasting gifts you have ever received!
